

“A Certain Thanksgiving”

by Nova Clark, copyright 2017

Opening narration:

What you are about to witness is not just a holiday, or a festive dinner. It is a marriage of sorts between two dimensions, past and present. It's the final door that has just been unlocked by our protagonist who currently sits alone at her television set. In a few short minutes Nancy Elliott will host the ultimate party; with guests she has, prior to tonight, only seen on the screen in a time before her own. But tonight the time is now. Because this isn't just the Twilight Zone; it also happens to be Thanksgiving.

Closing narration:

Miss Nancy Elliott, host of this year's Thanksgiving party. The guests, unexpected. The memory, priceless. This November, instead of dreaming of your idols joining you at the table, simply put on your favorite film and take some advice from Miss Elliott who got her guest list handed to her straight from... The Twilight Zone.