

“The Dictionary Writer”

by Benjamin Roque, copyright 2017

Opening narration:

Portrait of a college student, whose pursuit of the origin of the word, “who” leads him on a strange journey into the alphabet of the Twilight Zone.

Closing narration:

The prehistoric manufacturing line, whose products consisting of vowels, consonants, words, and definitions, provide the building blocks of language itself. It churns out its daily quota even today by its newest hire, along with its trustworthy operators in the Twilight Zone.