Opening narration:

What the 14 year-old Madison Kearns is inquiring to her mother about is an old Sony Walkman unearthed in the garage. Once the most coveted item in 1983, now on the precipice of extinction. And like most teenage girls, Maddie is quite disinterested in her mother, especially one with a turbulent past and all the warnings that entails. What Maddie does not know is that by her simply having had just touched the aforementioned object coupled with her affinity for songs of the nineteen eighties will transport her into the Twilight Zone.

Closing narration:

Picture of Ms. Madison Kearns in the arms of her mother. A girl who will appreciate her warm bed and quiet house a bit more tonight and listen to her mother's sighs a bit more cautiously and with a bit more empathy having had now witnessed these terrors herself in the Twilight Zone.
