

“The Interview”

copyright 2018 by David Fleming

Opening narration:

Imagine, a place where when you die, you're interviewed to determine if you qualify for the afterlife.

Presented for your approval is one, Percy Shatterfield. A lonely, bitter man, whose life is equivalent to a guest speaker's topic at a hobo convention. Mr. Shatterfield, a man whose only success in life has been in finding dust in the corners of his empty pockets. At midnight, Mr. Shatterfield has a most important appointment of his life, to see if he qualifies.

Closing Narrative

Percy Shatterfield's interview is over, and as grades go...he received an 'F' for his efforts. Percy was granted eternity somewhere. Hopefully he'll spend that time learning that no matter how ordinary a life, he should never steal bits and pieces from other people's lives. For it carries grave consequences...in The Twilight Zone.